

You have failed in keeping the standards for family viewing time at an acceptable level. I sincerely hope the incident during the super bowl will give you a wake-up-call as to how low you have allowed the standard to go. Entertainers now feel that they can do anything and get away with it. Don't give in to those that want to say and do anything during family time. Please, in the name of decency for families and this nation, start doing your job to ensure decency during family viewing time.
